Youth Center Holds Central Position in Community Life

THE PROBLEM before the organizers and friends of the Youth Center is the problem that confronts every city which has outgrown its village beginnings but still isn't large enough to support a big central organization such as a Y. M. C. A. or a Boys club.

Full-fledged Y. M. C. A. or Boys club operations, with a special building and a complete staff, are beyond the resources of a town of less than 10,000 population.

But on the other hand, the individual church and group organizations which work with youth do not wholly serve the community need, for they aren't set up on a city-wide basis — and couldn't finance it if they were.

The answer is a part-time Youth Center, formally organized as a separate entity but supported by all the other organizations and the public at large.

It should be incorporated as a non-profit institution, for the reason that when appeal is made to the public for funds such donations can be credited against the taxpayers' income returns only if the institution is firmly established and clearly recognized.

The Kiwanis club, to whom our community is indeed grateful for the present Youth Center, is in fact merely the most recent sponsor of work among youth. As you read in yesterday's news account, there was a Boys & Girls club prior to the Youth Center, with other sponsors.

But today it is our object to form a single city-wide organization, which would be permanent, and would take such legal form that it could appeal to all citizens on the same basis as the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, and other recognized public services. Our united support is behind this undertaking.

Tobey Wants to Reopen Crime Hearings

Washington, April 4 — (UP) — Sen. Charles W. Tobey, (R-N. H.) said today the senate crime committee should immediately reopen its hearings to question Charles and Rocco Fischetti, reputed leaders of Chicago's Capone syndicate.

Tobey, a committee member, said the Fischetti brothers are "kingpins in the gambling world." "They should not be allowed to escape questioning," he said, "because they have successfully eluded the committee for so long."

The Fischettis and Murry L. (The Camel) Humphreys, also described in committee testimony as an important figure in the Capone syndicate, surrendered yesterday, posted $3,000 bonds each and were freed.

Chairman Estes Kefauver, (D-Tenn.), said "provision will be made" to question them, but "until our report is out of the way."

In its interim report the committee described the two brothers as leaders — with Jake Guzik and Tony Accardo — of the Chicago crime syndicate.

Tobey made his request for more hearings as a favor to himself and Alexander Wiley, (R-Wis.), which would extend the life of the committee to next Jan. 15. The committee is scheduled to wind up April 30.

Police, telephone and telegraph officials combined, meanwhile, to cut off telephone service for gamblers and bookies in areas in Missouri, Indiana, Oklahoma, Massachusetts and Alabama.

100 Fans Get Preview of 1951 Porkers

More than 100 fans got a preview of how the Razorbacks will look this fall at an annual dinner meeting last night of the local Booster club at Hotel Barlow.

Booster club president, Mike Kelly, was master of ceremonies and introduced speakers. Andrew (Speedy) Hultson and Jim LaGrossa spoke all rumors that they were going to take over as coach of the Razorbacks next season.

Following the speaking phase of the program, Booster club members elected C. Cook as the group's new president, Leo Robbins, re-named vice-president and Dick Watkins was elected treasurer.

John Barnhill, athletic director of the University, urged all fans to continue to "pull together" and told the group that everything was coming along fine in the school's long-range athletic setup.

He was followed by Allen Berry, stadium manager, and Chas. Reed, president of the Boosters organization. Both were enthusiastic about the statewide athletic program from high schools to the University.

Mr. Berry invited local fans to the professional game September 1, between the Philadelphia Eagles and the Los Angeles Rams.

Tommy Thompson, quarterback for the Philadelphia Eagles, was full of praise for the improvement shown by the squad since last season. He told the group that Hope had some fine players on the squad and that Buddy Sutton would start as regular halfback and that Tommy Britt would return all punts.

He said that the determination of Earl Nix had won him a spot on the team and that the Hope youth would be used on defense, where he is needed most.

Coach Otis Douglas told the group that last year's team had him talking to himself. They had three systems of play, "two I gave them and one all their own. After last year's showing I still like mine best and it seems the boys are going to play mine a little more this year," he said.

"I believe we are going to have a good year, anyway we will be trying all the time," he concluded.

The program ended with a film of the Red-White spring training game at Little Rock. Four of the game's touchdowns were made by Hope boys.

Committee to Handle Rich Profits Probe

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — Senator Fulbright handed his senate banking subcommittee today the task of deciding in which committee deals, but ready and willing committee chairman said they would abide by the Fulbright (D-Ark) group's decision.

Whether Fulbright's group, meeting behind closed doors would seek also to compel White House aide Donald Dawson to reply to its accusations that he is involved in political influence ring was left for last minute decision.

Fulbright said he would not raise the Dawson issue, but other members of his subcommittee said they might.

The meeting was called specifically to determine which of two other senate groups should handle the ship deal inquiry.

The Fulbright subcommittee was heard testimony that Joseph E. Casey, former Democratic congressman from Massachusetts, and others, harvested a 2,800,000 profit on a 100,000 investment in oil tankers purchased from the old U. S. maritime commission.

The late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, and Julius C. Holmes, minister to the U. S. embassy at London, have been identified from records of the deal as some of the associates Casey had declined to name.

No wrongdoing in the ships deal has been alleged. The senators, however, want to examine it to see if political influence was involved and if it suggests ways in which income taxation should be tightened.

Casey has challenged the Fulbright group's authority to probe further for traces of political influence in the deal, Fulbright's subcommittee is probing reported influence b' outsiders on the loan policy of the reconstruction finance corp. (RFC). Two other senate investigations, K. R. O'Connell, head of the senate commerce committee, headed by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) Hoey and Johnson said they would abide by the decision. Today Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) proposed in a letter to Johnson that Magnuson's merchant marine subcommittee look into the sale and charter of merchant vessels. He said he acted on the basis of testimony before Fulbright's group.

Hoey and Johnson each said that if he gets the nod he will move promptly to air the entire transaction and other maritime commission affairs.

Inflation Is Big Problem, Wilson Warns

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today inflation is the nation's greatest problem, but it "can be controlled."

Wilson made the statement to the senate-house "watchdog" committee on mobilization at the start of a public survey of the defense program.

In an advance of the hearing, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) said a "terrible" inflation plight confronts the country and that congress "certainly is public to blame."

In his prepared statement, Wilson reviewed the highlights of the week-end report he made to President Truman on building America's might.

He reiterated that the task of whipping inflation is in many ways "tougher test of our ability to survive" than attaining high production.

"We take the view that inflation can be controlled," Wilson said. "In order to do this, however, we must have the national will and the national unity to take the necessary steps. The decisions that must be made to check inflation are hard decisions. Each appears to hurt someone."

"We will do our best to make the stabilization effort as painless as possible, but only where it can become consistent with the ultimate objective — a strong America with a healthy economy."

Wilson also said, as he did in his report, that with "the wholehearted cooperation of everyone" it may be possible to remove wage-price controls and other emergency curbs "sometime in 1953."

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the joint committee, said his group is after "all the enlightenment we can get" on how congress can push the defense program.

Untaxed Booze Sales Stopped, Morley Says

Miami, Fla., April 4 — (AP) — Arkansas has stopped the bootlegging of tax-free liquor by officers' clubs on military reservations, Commissioner Dean R. Morley of the Arkansas Revenue department said here today.

Morley told the convention of the national conference of state liquor administrators that his state now has a regulation requiring all such clubs to be licensed and to limit purchases to two bottles per month for each officer stationed at the reservations.

He said that during World War Two "there was rampant abuse of alcoholic beverage control laws by military personnel" and he doubted that "the situation was out of hand in many other states to the extent that it did in Arkansas."

Much of the enormous quantities of liquor purchased by such clubs during the war years found its way into the hands of civilians, he said.

A special bulletin at all wholesale informants that no tax refunds could be made to officers' clubs, Morley said, and that the clubs must hold retail permits and buy their supplies from wholesalers at fixed retail prices.

The arrangement saved the state whatever it might have spent in enforcement brought in the tax money the state would have lost and kept the money which officers spent for liquor in the state of Arkansas.

Lee County Judge Dies

Memphis, April 4 — (AP) — County Judge Oscar B. Harris of Lee county (Marion) Arkansas, died at a hospital here yesterday.

More Obstacles Delay 'Troop' Compromise

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — Only some minor amendments and more oratory remained today as obstacles to senate approval of a finely-drawn compromise on the "great debate" issue of sending more American ground troops to Europe.

Approval seemed assured as the senate gathered (noon, EST) to put a final gavel on a resolution endorsing the assignment of four U. S. divisions to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's north Atlantic treaty army. Two in Europe in occupation duty have already been assigned to that force.

The Truman administration, which had lost one major test earlier, won a second today yesterday when the senate refused 58 to 31 to convert its resolution into a bill which would have the force of law.

Firmly entrenched in the resolution, however, was a provision putting the senate on record saying that no more than four divisions should be sent in peacetime "without further congressional approval."

This advisory opinion — and that is all it is — countered President Truman's contention that he has full authority to deploy troops. He said congress would be consulted, out of politeness.

This section, written in over administration protests, brought comment from Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the senate armed services committee that the measure "is all right for home consumption but not for export."

"The people at home are going to say that the senate and the President agree on sending four divisions to Europe but those abroad are going to believe that we are only taking half measures," Russell told reporters.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee said the resolution "is authorized by Senator McClellan (D-Ark)." "Doesn't help the resolution but it isn't going to kill it."

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, had a different view of the nearly completed resolution.

"The senate's action is a strong declaration by congress of its constitutional authority," Taft said. "The McClellan amendment makes it clear that congress is asserting that it can limit the number of troops sent abroad."

Just Keeping What They Have Makes People Happier Than Getting What They Ask for

By HAL BOYLE
New York — (AP) — Once upon a time Wilbur Peabody and his wife Trellis Mae decided to throw a cocktail party.

Naturally they dreaded it. Everybody dreads giving a cocktail party. Everybody dreads going to one. That is why cocktail parties are so popular.

"They leave the house in such a mess," sighed Trellis Mae comfortably. "And nobody ever seems to know when to leave."

"Now, isn't that the truth?" agreed Wilbur cheerfully. "They all seem to forget they have homes of their own. It's just awful."

"If once — just once — you could break a cocktail party up on time," said Trellis Mae. "It wouldn't be so bad."

"Fat chance," said Wilbur. "Then they went ahead with their plans. Trellis Mae sat down and scribbled out a little note in the quietest part of the party date."

"If you are having a free party at your barn from five to eight do come. First six kids and minor repairs provided by the management."

More Yanks Cross Parallel Others Mass

Tokyo, April 4 — (UP) — A second American division sent a task force ripping four miles into North Korea today on the right flank of a 16-mile-wide bridgehead established across the 38th parallel by American troops Tuesday.

An 8th army communiqué reported the new thrust into North Korea ran into heavy enemy and artillery fire which faded out as the Yanks continued their drive into the Communist homeland.

At last reports task force was continuing its advance against minor enemy resistance estimated at company strength.

The new thrust was on the right of the original bridgehead into North Korea established by another American division in the area of Yongpyong, 32 miles north northeast of Seoul.

The original bridgehead was extended from 10 to 15 miles during the past 25 hours to provide a firm left flank for the new sally by a neighboring division.

The new thrust ripped north along a secondary road leading from Uijongbu to the U. S. Communist base of Kumhwa, the center of Communist concentrations estimated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur at 85 divisions totaling 500,000 men.

It passed through the town of Changam, reconnoitered by patrols Tuesday, and sped on north through Typyong to a point only miles inside North Korea.

Changam is three miles north of the parallel and Typyong is about one mile north of Changam.

The 8th army announced in a communiqué issued at 8 p. m. (D. M. EST) that the new thrust was going strong. This indicated the force intended to stay in North Korea instead of striking south of the parallel at dusk as is the custom of ordinary patrol actions.

Two other American divisions were poised along the west-central and central fronts ready to drive into the Communist homeland and join the two divisions already there.

The United Nations thrust across the 38th parallel may start one of the most decisive battles of the Korean war.

They entered their living room together, ready for the great ordeal. They were already tired. They sat ready to drop.

"I'll probably be another hour before anybody shows up," complained Trellis Mae.

"Yeah," growled Wilbur. "They never show up when they ought to."

But at that moment the door rang. The first guest had arrived. Soon the room was swarming with them. They clustered around the television set. They stood in the hall and each other the latest witty remarks of their children.

They sat on the floor and discussed the intricacies of the bomb and the atom.

Everybody was so happy and so content. Nobody knew how to stop. Nobody knew when to leave. Nobody knew when to go.

"We paid for this party," said Wilbur. "Just then the door opened and three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, ## A Feeler to China Would Put Us on Record Once More as Being Desirous of Peace

By DAVID MACKENZIE
AP Staff Writer

British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said today that this is the psychological moment to try to end the Korean war.

Simultaneously, Warren Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, expressed the opinion to newsmen in Omaha, Neb., that from a military point of view this is a good time to talk peace for Korea.

Now it's hardly likely that these two almost identical expressions were pure coincidences, especially since they were spoken yesterday by France. Indeed they look like a bit of purposeful siting, especially since we know that the U. S. army in Korea have been considering a possible future declaration regarding peace.

There is no indication the Chinese are ready to talk peace, have been nothing heard from them since they rejected General Acheson's offer of Korea as a buffer in the field with the American army in the effort to end the fighting.

It will be recalled that this was the fourth time the United States has offered to negotiate with the Chinese, but each time the offer has been rejected.

There is no sign so far as this column can see that this is the appointed hour for peace. However, Russian knows that we aren't afraid of her and therefore the feeling now is in strong enough position to venture a peace feeler if they wish.

A feeler would at least put us on record once more as being desirous of peace.

Her accident, given wide attention when it happened, prompted California and Nevada legislatures to take action regarding boat speeds on Tahoe.

the democracies while economical — especially the United States. The Korean war — and other Communist uprisings — serve a double purpose of creating not only economic but military strain.

And this, mind you, is achieved without the Soviet union participating actively on a major scale. The Red fighting in Korea is being done mainly by Chinese, with Moscow supervising the show and aiding with materials.

Russia herself doesn't want to become involved in the actual fighting. She is conserving her strength for the ultimate showdown. On that basis the time might arrive when she would want to see the Korean fight terminated in order to avoid becoming actively involved in it herself.

Briefs From the Baseball Spring Camps

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 4 — (UP) — Manager Marty Marion said today that he probably will not open the season at shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals and gave no hint about when he would be able to play.

Camp observers agreed that the one-time "Mr. Short stop" probably would not play at all this season and would be exclusively a bench manager.

Barring a trade, the Cardinals are expected to open the season with only Hennes at short. A stocky, 26-year old left-handed hitter, Hennes hit only 133 in 11 games for the Cardinals in 1950 but hit .297 for Columbus in the American association in 88 games.

The Redbirds recently were offering holdout Pitcher Howie Pollet for a shortstop of known big league ability but were unable to agree to a deal. They turned down a Brooklyn Dodger offer of Eddie Miksis and were turned down themselves when they offered Pollet to the Philadelphia Phillies for Granny Hamner.

"Naturally I hope to play some more," Marion said. "However, I have set no date on my possible return to the lineup. I have not given Fred Salch (Cardinal owner) any idea of when I think I will play. I don't know myself."

Beaumont, Tex., April 4 — (UP) — There was nothing wrong with Jack Kramer that 30 lashes from New York Giant Manager Leo Durocher's tongue couldn't cure.

Kramer proved that yesterday when he trotted the Boston Braves with only one hit in five innings enabling the Giants to come from behind and win, 10 to 8. Only 24 hours previously Durocher had told Kramer "to change your attitude or else."

Kramer meekly said he would and Leo quickly gave him a chance to prove it.

The results indicated that Kramer can take his place on the Giant staff as a spot-starter and clutch reliever. Durocher considers a relief pitcher as one of his most important have-nots — at least until yesterday.

Lakeland, Fla., April 4 — (UP) — The Detroit Tigers' spring fortunes hit a new low today following sore-armed Virgil Trucks' disheartening performance in his second mound effort of the spring.

Trucks — counted on to replace 19-game winner Art Houtman, the strong-arm right-hander of the Detroit staff — was knocked out of the box as the St. Louis Cardinals pounded out an 8 to 0 victory, yesterday. He was routed in the fourth inning when he walked five and allowed two hits good for five runs.

It was the Tigers' 12th loss compared to only four wins in exhibition games.

Will Try to Split UMT Provisions

Washington, April 4 — (AP) — A house Democratic leader says he will try to amputate universal military training provisions from the draft-UMT bill before the house. He appeared to have considerable Republican backing, but administration leaders still predicted they will get house approval for their combined bill.

Rep. Barden of North Carolina, chairman of the house labor and education committee, said he will try by amendment to cut UMT out of the universal military training and service (UMTS) measure. The measure is sponsored by Chairman Vinson (Ga.) of the house armed services committee. It would permit drafting of youths at 18 1/2 years of age, toughen the draft and set up machinery for UMT.

Barden said that when the amendment stage is reached, probably next week, he intends to offer a substitute bill.

His bill would retain the present draft age brackets of 19 to 36 years and extend the length of service from the present 21 months to 24. The Vinson bill calls for 26 months.

The Barden bill would retain the same lowered physical and mental standards for induction as provided in the Vinson measure. These are standards used by the military services in January, 1944, when admittedly "scrapping the bottom of the barrel" for men.

The Barden move will enable Republicans, among whom there is strong opposition to UMT, to sit back and see how the wind blows, as one of them put it, before striking out on their own.

Rep. Short of Missouri, senior Democratic member on the armed services committee and one of those who voted against the bill in committee, has said he would support Barden's measure.

Administration leaders, although admitting they don't like the Barden move, said they still accept the UMT features of the Vinson bill.

Mr. Truman Patterns After FDR

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 4 — (UP) — In calling labor leaders to a White House conference tomorrow, President Truman is doing what President Roosevelt did.

Mr. Roosevelt was able to quiet them. Mr. Truman has yet to show he can do the same. The problems facing both Presidents were rather similar.

Early in 1941, when the defense program was getting under way, Mr. Roosevelt created the national defense mediation board (NDMB).

Its purpose: To try to settle peacefully disputes between management and labor. NDMB had 12 members; four from labor, four from business, four representing the public.

It explored in November, 1941, when some of the labor members walked out in protest against a decision by the other board members. That was the end of the board. The next month we were in the war.

On Dec. 17 President Roosevelt called a White House conference of labor and management. During the war, most of labor and management promised there'd be no strikes and no lockouts.

Since they were giving up their right to settle a dispute by walking out or shutting down a plant, something had to be done to give them fair treatment. So Mr. Roosevelt created the war labor board (WLB).

And both sides agreed to submit their disputes to WLB and abide by the decisions. This board also had 12 members, four from labor, four from business, four representing the public.

It was a time of rising prices. OPA hadn't come into full power — which meant labor would want higher wages when prices went higher and management would want to charge higher prices if they gave wage increases.

WLB finally worked out a formula, deciding generally that no wages should be in excess of 15 per cent above where they had been in January, 1941. WLB pretty well held to this formula.

Now comes the present defense program. To control prices and wages at the same time, Mr. Truman created the OPS (office of price stabilization) and the WSB (wage stabilization board).

Late in January both agencies suddenly cracked down, freezing wages and prices — but only temporarily, until machinery could be set up to carry out the controls. It was understood, because the freeze was so sudden, that adjustments would have to be made in both prices and wages.

WSB — with nine members, three from labor, three from industry, three representing the public — set about controlling wages. WSB exploded on Feb. 13. The reason:

Over the protests of the labor representatives, the other six WSB members decided wages generally could not be raised more than 10 per cent above where they were in January, 1950. Labor walked out of the board on Feb. 16.

More than that: the labor leaders — except for John L. Lewis and four rail unions — banded together and pulled their representa-speech to officers and managers of Arkansas Rural Electric Co-ops yesterday.

Thompson discussed act 51 of 1949, which was passed in line with a congressional act authorizing loans from the rural electrification administration for extension of telephone service into rural areas under provisions similar to those for loans for extension of electric power.

State's Racing Take is $57,718

Little Rock, April 4 — (AP) — "Breakage" — the odd cents that accumulate in pari-mutuel betting — netted the state of Arkansas $57,718.92 and the city of Hot Springs $40,078.82 during the recent Oaklawn horse race meeting.

Before March 6 (the meeting opened in February), the state got all the "breakage." An act of the 1951 legislature changed the law to give the track and the city of Hot Springs shares.

Youth Kills 4 Members of Family

Marshfield, Mo., April 4 — (UP) — A 24-year-old farmer shot and killed four members of a neighboring family and fired 14 shots at another couple in a wild orgy of revenge because "they didn't like me."

Kenneth Essery sobbed in a jail cell today as he confessed to killing William Thomas Shockley, 43, his wife Clara, 44, their daughter Helen, 16, and Shockley's mother, Mrs. Martha Ellen Shockley, 75.

"They were all good people," he cried. "But they didn't like me." He refused to give Sheriff E. I. Cunningham any further explanation.

"I only remember shooting Bill Shockley," Essery said. "But I must have killed the others, too." The shootings occurred at Shockley's farm four miles southeast of nearby Conway, Mo., in the rugged Ozark hills of southwestern Missouri.

Essery made no attempt to harm Shockley's nine other children, most of whom were asleep when he appeared at the house last night.

Helen was killed as she attempted to telephone her aunt, Mrs. Luke O'Connor, who lives on a nearby farm.

When she heard the shots that killed Helen and couldn't get a response from the girl, Mrs. O'Connor called Cunningham and then raced to the Shockley home with her husband.

They arrived just as Essery was leaving after shooting the four persons.

He fired 14 shots from his .22 caliber rifle at them as they crouched in their pickup truck. Neither was hit.

Cunningham, arriving a few minutes later, found Helen dead with the telephone receiver still grasped in her hand.

Essery was seized at the home of his father Bill to whom he confessed the slayings. When Cunningham arrived, the elder Essery told the officers: "Please come in, he's here and you can have him."

The farms of Essery, his father, and the Shockleys are each located about four miles apart.

Shockley's 13-year-old, Jimmy, told officers that Essery appeared at the home about 9 o'clock. Shockley met Essery at the rear door and a few minutes later Jimmy heard Essery say "go ahead."

Then a shot rang out and Shockley fell dead in the doorway. Essery ran into the house and shot Helen as she frantically called her aunt for help. She died instantly from a bullet in her back.

Officers found Shockley's wife and mother dead in a pool of blood on a makeshift bed on the floor of one of the bedrooms. A 10-month-old girl was sleeping peacefully between them, unharmed.

Five other small children sleeping upstairs also were not hurt. After his encounter with the O'Connors outside the house, Essery fled into the night. Officers called for bloodhounds to track him down but located him at his father's home before the dogs arrived.

Democrats Win Chicago Mayorship

Chicago, April 4 — (UP) — Democrats hailed Mayor Martin H. Kennelly's reelection today as a sign that his party stronghold would remain within their grasp for the 1952 presidential election.

Kennelly defeated Republican Robert L. Hunter in Tuesday's election with complete returns from the city's 4,301 precincts showing 697,871 votes for Kennelly and 345,320 for Hunter.

Democratic candidates also won in races for city clerk, city treasurer, and to fill a vacancy on the municipal court bench. Three Republicans and two Democrats were elected in five aldermanic run-off elections.

Although some leaders of both parties had claimed that the election might show a trend for 1950, the results actually were relatively inconclusive.

Kennelly's majority of 152,545 votes compared with a margin of 273,000 by which he defeated his Republican opponent, Russell Root, to win his first term.

Yesterday's total vote of 1,243,297 was below the 1946 ballot of 1,588,000 but was not the lowest in history. Kennelly polled 56.14 per cent compared with his 58.73 per cent showing in 1947.

He piled up a lead early in the vote counting and Hunter conceded before 11 p. m. in a telegram which wished the mayor "every success in achieving a greater cleaner and safer Chicago."

Kennelly said his victory was "a clear demonstration that the people want retained in local government those policies and principles my administration stands for."

Newsboy Rescues Two Small Girls

Minneapolis, April 4 — (UP) —
A cool-headed newsboy rescued
two little girls from the icy waters of an abandoned cistern and then went on delivering papers as if nothing had happened.

One of the little girls' mother said it was a "miracle." But 13-year-old Billy Donahue didn't think it was much.

Billy was delivering his papers
yesterday when he heard screams coming from a field. They came from a muddy, eight-foot cistern
that had been in disuse for years.
He ran to its edge and saw two heads protruding from the three-foot deep water.

Karen Lotterer and Jane Anderson, both five years old, had been playing near the cistern when they slipped and fell into it. They were sobbing and crying for help.

Mrs. T. R. C. Anderson,
Jane's mother, ran up just as Billy arrived.

"I was nearly petrified with fear," she said. "I was afraid the walls might cave in and bury them
if we tried to rescue the children."

So she ran back to her home to call the fire department.

Billy quietly went about the job
of getting the children out.

"I figured that if they would hold up their arms I might be able to grab their fingers," he said later.

A neighbor boy, 12-year-old John Lagorio, had run up to see what the trouble was. Billy told him to get a firm grip on his legs while he leaned into the cistern.

"I leaned way over and got hold of Karen," he said. "She was crying so hard that she slipped the first time, but the second try I pulled her over the edge."

"Jane wasn't crying so hard, and she's lighter than Karen, so it wasn't so hard to get her up."

Mrs. Anderson came running back just as Billy pulled her daughter out. A few moments later the fire department rescue squad pulled up.

DOROTHY DIX

Slovenly Wife

Dear Miss Dix: What can a man
do with a wife who is a good woman
but the world's worst housekeeper?
My wife has all the conventional virtues. She is virtuous, kind generous, intelligent and good natured,
but she is incorrigibly lazy and solvenly. She never gets up for breakfast, lounging around in a kimono,
we have never had a meal in the house that was fit to eat. The house is so dirty I am ashamed to ask anyone into it. I make a good salary, but everything is wasted so I can never get ahead. I am a domestic man, who craves a neat and orderly and thrifty run house, like the one I was brought up in. I have tried every way in the world to rouse my wife into making some effort to be a better housekeeper, but without avail. Is there any way I can change her so she will make me the home I long for? And if, so how?

DISGRUNTLED HUSBAND

Answer: I believe laziness to be an incurable vice. Possibly people who are just so inert that they cannot bring themselves to make any effort either mental or physical,
have some disease. At any rate, I have never seen any of these Weary Willies or Wilhelmias who have ever galvanized into action or who ever rolled his sleeves and went to work.

Peace of Mind at Stake

When a woman finds out she has married a lazy man, all she can do is go to work and support him.
When a man finds out he has married a lazy woman, all he can do is just break up his home and go to live in some good boarding house or hotel where he can have proper food and decent surroundings, or hire a housekeeper to run his house.
This will save wear and tear on his temper, nerves and stomach, and be money in his pocket in the long run. For a man's efficiency at his job depends upon his being well fed and upon his being able to maintain a peaceful state of mind,
which he cannot do if he is continually irritated by his wife's trifling ness.

The law permits a woman to divorce the husband who does not support her. It should make bad housekeeping equally a cause for divorce.
It is just as much a woman's obligation to make her husband a comfortable home as it is his to make her a decent living.

A lot of good for nothing wives
would get busy with the cook stove and the vacuum cleaner if they knew they would lose their job and be sent back to mother for lying in bed
on a morning and make a hard-working husband get up and get his own breakfast, and for sitting down to dinners that would kill an ostrich.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can a husband let down his wife when she has suffered for him? I have been sick ever since my little girl was born nine months ago and I have become dissatisfied and unhappy.
I feel that my husband has become tired of the baby and me because he has sent us back to my parents in the country, while he is working in town to pay our back bills. He says this is the only reason for sending me home, but I believe he is tired of staying home nights and not getting to go places as he used to do. I don't get to go places either.
Do you think he is letting me down?
I believe I will lose my mind if I don't find my way out soon.

DISSATISFIED

Answer: What about letting your husband down? Be honest with your self. You had the baby because you wanted it and because babies are natural by-products of marriage.
It is just your misfortune that you have had ill health as a result. Nothing your husband was responsible for.

And don't forget that he has got a bad break as well as you have.
He has had the anxiety about your health, the terrible bills that have had to be incurred for nurses and doctors and hospitals, and the depression of having to come home
every night to a sick and nervous wife instead of a jolly and healthy one.

Snap out of it. Try to see the situation from his point of view, and instead of reproaching him with what you consider his neglect, tell him how wonderful you think he is in being patient with you. He has done the sensible thing in sending you to your parents' where you have a better care than he can give you and he can have a chance to pay up your bills. Now you be sensible and leave your baby with your mother and go to some special list who can cure you. Don't let your inbred frame of mind wreck
your life.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are two 16 year old girls who are tired of the old-fashioned ideas about petting.
Here is the way we look at it. There are only two reasons why a thing should not be done—because of harm to yourself or someone else, or of others' opinions. We think we do ourselves no harm, and we believe that intelligent people do not think less of us for doing it.

TWO PHILOSOPHERS

Answer: But the petter does do himself harm when she throws a way all the reserves of maidenhood
and when she violates all the canons of good taste. No man feels he need respect the girl who is a heavy petter.

Dear Miss Dix: We would like to know your opinion on these three problems:

(1) My boy friend always tries to make me jealous. What attitude should I take?

What advice would you give us
in these matters?

CO-EDS

Answer: (1) It seems to me that a girl who is engaged to a boy who is away in the army shows very little loyalty to him if she kisses every Tom, Dick and Harry who takes her to the movies. He is risking his life, and it can't be very comforting to him to know that she is holding petting parties with other men.

Any girl who kisses just because she likes to kiss isn't really in love with any one man. She lacks imagination and discrimination with and neither her sweetheart nor her husband can ever be sure of her.

Don't Be A Love Thief
(2) There are various and sundry ways by which a girl can steal another girl's boy friend away from her. But why do you want to do such an unethical thing? A love affair is just as dishonorable as an other sneak theft. Believe me, my child, honesty is the best policy in love affairs as it is in business. You will find no happiness in parading around with the boy you have taken from another girl by nefarious tricks. It won't arouse envy in the breasts of your friends. It will fill them with contempt for you.

(3) When your boy friend tries to make you jealous, just laugh at him. Don't let him see that he has gotten a rise out of you. Be particularly friendly to the other girl, because what he is trying to do is make you scratch out her eyes. If he thinks that you can take him or leave him, and that you don't even notice whether he comes around or not, he will be back trying to make up with you. The one thing boys can't stand in a girl is an attitude of indifference.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 16
and for eight years I have been taking piano lessons and I hate them.
When my mother was a little girl
she longed to play the piano, but she could not afford to be taught, so she determined that I should be a musician. I have no talent, but have been made to grind at it and go to practice all these years.
When other little girls were playing and going out in the afternoons
I had to stay in and thump on the piano. Don't you think that after eight years of lessons I should be able to show some ability if I had any? I hate to disappoint my mother, but I loathe the piano.

Answer: Some here, Alice. My childhood was also sacrificed to my parent's misplaced ambition that I should be a musician when I could easily have learned to be a sleeperjack. I, too, know what it is to have to come in from play or to be torn away from the most thrilling part of a fascinating story to have practice for the longest hour
in recorded time.

Conceded music may have many sins to answer for, but all of them
should be forgiven for the millions of unmusical and untalented girls who have emancipated from taking piano lessons.

There is something very pathetic
in the desire of mothers to have their children fulfill their own ambitions, but they should be wise enough to accept the fact that Nature does not always reproduce the child in the mother's mold, nor give it the same talents and desires, and the Mother cannot make a musician of her daughter unless God made her one first.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young man and for more than three years
have been going with a woman several years older than myself. At the time I thought I really loved her,
but now I know that I do not care for her, and there is no future for either one of us. I have tried to break away, but she has threatened to kill me if I do. What would you advise me to do?

A.F.

Answer: Break away. Her threats are just a bluff to force you into marrying her. She probably hasn't the slightest intention whatever of doing you any harm.

The greatest injury that any man can do a woman is to marry her when he doesn't love her, because he can't possibly be a good husband unless he cares for her. He is bound to be miserable if forced into marriage against his will and to take out his spite on his wife, no woman who loved a man or who had any decent feeling of self-respect would force herself on a man.
